NSW'S BEST TO TRAIN AT KOOINDAH WATERS

Kooindah Waters Residential Golf & Spa Resort will play host to some of the best female golfers in the state when the New South Wales Open Women's Golf Team tee off for two days of team practice on June 29 and 30.

The team, led by state coach and Kooindah Waters ambassador Dennise Hutton, are preparing for this year's annual interstate golf series.

Kooindah Waters Director of Golf Mark Ingrey said it was exciting to have some of the country's best female golfers coming to play at the course.

"It is great to see that golfers of the calibre of Australian squad members Julia Boland and Rebecca Flood will be using these facilities to prepare for the national event," he said.

"The fact that Kooindah Waters has been chosen as a training venue for the team demonstrates the quality of the layout and the facilities onsite, reinforcing our position as one of the state's best new courses," he said.

Dennise Hutton said she was looking forward to bringing the team to Kooindah Waters.

"To make the Open Women's team is the pinnacle of state amateur golf and something every golfer dreams of, Ms Hutton said.

"During our training camp at Kooindah Waters we will be working on our match play strategy and short game skills," she said.
